Camden School Calendar Amended!

Most parents have finally found a good routine for the school year — a way to balance marital arts classes, dance rehearsals, homework, and the rest of life. Now, you have to pay close attention to a recent change to the school calendar for Camden County Schools.

Camden County Board of Education voted to accept a recommendation from Superintendent Dr. Tracolya Green to add two additional teacher workdays to the 2023-2024 school calendar — September 1st and October 6th. Both of these teacher workdays created extended holidays surrounding Labor day and Columbus Day, respectively.

The NSB Kings Bay Child Development Center will be closed on Friday, September 1st for professional development. Parents and guardians should begin now to make childcare arrangements for these two teacher workdays.

SEPTEMBER 2023							1 Teacher Workday

Mark your calendars!

There are two new teacher workdays added to the Camden County Schools calendar.

On September 11th, our nation honors and remembers those who died in the World Trade Center Twin Towers and the first responders who gave their lives trying to save others.

Georgia Child Supervision Guidelines

School is back in session, but childcare remains expensive for families who need it. Parents often consider leaving older children in charge of younger siblings, but be careful! In Georgia, one of the definitions of neglects is “the failure to provide a child with adequate supervision necessary for such child’s wellbeing.” Parents, caregivers, and adults should familiarize themselves with the Georgia Division of Family and Children Services’ child supervision guidelines to protect children from neglect and injuries.

DFCS suggests the following guidelines when determining if a child is old enough and mature enough to be left without adult supervision. Keep in mind that each child is different. In addition to the minimum supervision guidelines, parents, guardians and adults have to consider child-specific factors such as personality, developmental progress, environment and maturity when deciding if a child is ready to accomplish activities with little or no supervision. The guidelines for children in foster care differ from the guidelines for children in parental custody.

Children in Parental Custody

1. Children (8) eight years or younger should not be left alone,
2. Children between the ages of (9) nine years and (12) twelve years, based on level of maturity, may be left alone for brief (less than two hours) periods of time, and
3. Children (13) thirteen years and older, who are at an adequate level of maturity, may be left alone and may perform the role of babysitter, as authorized by the parent, for up to twelve hours.

Tips for Parents

Once you have determined that your child is ready to stay home alone, the following suggestions may help you to prepare your child and to feel more comfortable about leaving him or her home alone:

- Have a trial period. Leave the child home alone for a short time while staying close to home. This is a good way to see how he or she will manage.
- Role play. Act out possible situations to help your child learn what to do, such as how to manage visitors who come to the door or how to answer phone calls in a way that doesn’t reveal that a parent is not at home.
- Establish rules. Make sure your child knows what is (and is not) allowed when you are not home. Set clear limits on the use of television, computers and other electronic devices, and the internet.² Some experts suggest making a list of chores or other tasks to keep children busy while you are gone.
- Discuss emergencies. What does the child consider an emergency? What does the parent consider an emergency? Have a code word that the parent and child can use in the event of any emergency.
- Check in. Call your child while you are away to see how it’s going, or let them know they’ll have a trusted neighbor or friend check in on them

If you have specific questions concerning supervision guidelines, please contact the DFCS Customer Contact Center at 1-877-423-4746 (Monday – Friday, 7:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.).

Branch Medical Clinic Services

The Interstate Compact grants military parents seeking to enroll students in local schools an additional 30 calendar days to comply with district medical requirements or initiate compliance, if a series of shots are required. The 30-day count begins once the child has been presented to the school for attendance. Having not met these medical requirements should NOT keep a military child from attending school once the online registration is properly completed. Georgia requires two forms be submitted to document medical compliance:

Form 3300 — Certificate of Immunization

Military parents need only bring existing "shot records" to the Immunization Office at the Kings Bay Branch Medical Clinic in order for clinic personnel to transfer information onto this required Georgia form. No appointment is necessary. Please contact Della Poponea of at (912) 573-8250 for more information.

Form 3231— Certificate of Vision, Hearing, Dental and Nutrition

This is essentially the record on which the school physical is recorded. Upon arrival, military parents will need contact the network provider for their school-age children in order to make the necessary appointments. The attending physician can complete this form for submission to local schools.

Vaccination requirements for students entering 7th grade in Georgia:

All students born on or after January 1, 2002 and entering, advancing or transferring into 7th grade in Georgia must have proof of an adolescent pertussis (whooping cough) booster vaccination (called "Tdap") and an adolescent meningococcal vaccination (called MCV4).

BE A BETTER ME IN 2023

Labor Day — September 4th!

Labor Day, an annual celebration of workers and their achievements, originated during one of American labor history's most dismal chapters. In the late 1800s, at the height of the Industrial Revolution in the United States, the average American worked 12-hour days and seven-day weeks in order to eke out a basic living. Despite restrictions in some states, children as young as 5 or 6 toiled in mills, factories and mines across the country, earning a fraction of their adult counterparts' wages.

As manufacturing increasingly supplanted agriculture as the wellspring of American employment, labor unions, which had first appeared in the late 18th century, grew more prominent and vocal. They began organizing strikes and rallies to protest poor conditions and compel employers to renegotiate hours and pay. On September 5, 1882, 10,000 workers took unpaid time off to march from City Hall to Union Square in New York City, holding the first Labor Day parade in U.S. history. The idea of a “workingmen’s holiday,” celebrated on the first Monday in September, caught on in other industrial centers across the country, and many states passed legislation recognizing it. Congress would not legalize the holiday until 12 years later, when a watershed moment in American labor history brought workers’ rights squarely into the public’s view.

In the wake of this massive unrest and in an attempt to repair ties with American workers, Congress passed an act making Labor Day a legal holiday in the District of Columbia and the territories. On June 28, 1894, President Grover Cleveland signed it into law. Labor Day is still celebrated in cities and towns across the United States. For many Americans, particularly children and young adults, it represents the end of the summer and the start of the back-to-school season.

National Hispanic Heritage Month

Hispanic Heritage Month (HHM) takes place September 15 to October 15 every year as a time to recognize and celebrate the many contributions, diverse cultures, and extensive histories of the American Latino community.

Beginning in 1968, Hispanic Heritage Month was originally observed as “Hispanic Heritage Week”, but it was later extended to a month in 1988. Since then, HHM has been celebrated nationwide through festivals, art shows, conferences, community gatherings, and much more. The month also celebrates the independence days of several Latin American countries, including: Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, and Nicaragua on September 15th, Mexico on September 16th, and Chile on September 18th. They also include holidays that recognize Hispanic contributions such as Virgin Islands-Puerto Rico Friendship Day that is celebrated in the U.S. Virgin Islands.

This year’s theme is “Building Prosperous and Healthy Communities.” Building upon the theme will different weeks of action focusing on how the Administration has been supporting the Latino community:

- September 15th: Hispanic Heritage Month Kick-Off Day
- Week of September 19th: Jobs and the Economy
- Week of September 26th: Climate
- Week of October 3rd: Education and Investing in HSIs
- Week of October 10th: Mental Health and Wellness
- October 15th: Last Day of Hispanic Heritage Month

Road Paving Begins

Exercise Caution!

Drivers on Naval Submarine Base Kings Bay need to plan for delays and changing traffic patterns as a result of upcoming construction/road improvements. Public Work will start closing travel lanes for road resurfacing activities. Residents and travelers in those impacted areas should exercise caution when driving on these routes and be aware of the construction work taking place. Road crews will be on sight to help manage traffic and guide drivers safely through those areas. These road improvements will take place in phases. Phase 1 — USS Andrew Jackson and USS James Madison road near Kings Bay housing was postponed until 16 September due to Tropical Storm/Hurricane Idalia.

COVID in 2023

Now that the summer travel season has ended, and masks are a distant memory, it's not entirely surprising that COVID-19 cases are creeping upward again. Along with the increase, states like Georgia, are also recording upticks in COVID-19 hospitalizations, especially among older people.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), weekly hospitalizations have been rising slightly since the middle of June, from around 6,300 to more than 8,000 for the week ending July 22.

The trend reflects the waning immunity that most of the population has against SARS-CoV-2. In April, the CDC advised that most people receive a booster targeting the viral variants Omicron BA.4/5. These variants, however, have since been replaced by new ones, of the XBB variety, which means the protection the current booster provides is less than ideal. US health officials decided to update the booster in the fall, but have yet to announce which variant to target although it's likely the new shot will focus on some version of the XBB virus variant.

More From TIME

Until that happens, does it make sense to get another booster shot to better protect against getting infected? The answer to that really depends on your individual situation, says Dr. David Wohl, professor of medicine at the Institute of Global Health and Infectious Diseases at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. For people who are older, and may be traveling or otherwise find themselves in close quarters with other people, getting a booster now may make sense, especially if their last shot was more than three months ago.

Existing boosters can still be effective

The same goes for people with weakened immune systems, whom the CDC also recommends get boosted more regularly to keep their immunity as strong as possible. Even though the current booster does not specifically target the XBB viral variants that are currently circulating, it “is not chopped liver,” says Wohl.

But for most otherwise healthy people who take reasonable precautions against getting infected, such as wearing masks in public settings and in poorly ventilated environments, waiting a few weeks for the updated booster may make sense. Other experts believe it couldn't hurt for even otherwise healthy people to get another booster now.

Immunity from infection

In addition, vaccines aren't the only source of immunity. While it's not clear whether getting vaccinated or infected provides stronger protection, it's likely the vaccine does protect people from getting seriously ill. The protection provided by the existing vaccine, even if it's not optimal, is therefore still important, and could be contributing to the smaller peaks in cases than we've seen in the past.

Hurricane Season June 1—November 30

The warm waters of the Atlantic Ocean which give birth to seasonal hurricanes care little about the pandemic which is impacting the global community. Whether you are new to the area or a Coastal hurricane veteran, now is the time to prepare! We must not forget that hurricane season begins June 1 and last through November 30. Be ready for hurricane season!

Today, you can determine your personal hurricane risk, find out if you live in a hurricane evacuation zone, and review/update insurance policies. You can also make a list of items to replenish hurricane emergency supplies and start thinking about how you will prepare your home for the coming hurricane season. If you live in a hurricane-prone area, you are encouraged to complete these simple preparations before hurricane season begins. Keep in mind, you may need to adjust any preparedness actions based on the latest health and safety guidelines from local officials.

Preparing for a hurricane is not difficult, but it DOES require planning. Visit www.Ready.gov/Hurricanes for more suggestions about how you can design a hurricane plan that meets the needs of your family:

- ⇒ Documentation: Might you need to take medical records? Be sure to bring copies of COVID-19 verification. Property or insurance records? Document all of your valuables with a camera. Make your hurricane list and 'check it twice'
- ⇒ Evacuation route: Will you stay or evacuate? If you leave, where will you go? How will you get there? One vehicle or more? Will you need to make hotel reservations or are you staying with family or friends? Have enough cash? Are the vehicle filled with gas?
- ⇒ Exceptional needs: Does anyone in your family have special needs? Medication? List medications and dosage instructions. Assistive technology/ medical equipment? Be sure to record styles and serial numbers of the equipment.
- ⇒ Pet Needs — Are pets traveling with you? Pet vaccination records (many hotels requirement)? Have you identified pet-friendly housing options in the evacuation area? Will your pets require crates, kennels, food dishes, etc.

- ⇒ Communication — Have you compiled the names and numbers of those who will need to know where you are. If you are active duty, make sure that your Navy Family Accountability and Assessment System (NFAAS) information is updated. Be sure to add the NFAAS app to your phone as an immediate resource.

- ⇒ FEMA App — In addition to communicating and "mustering" with your command, you may wish to get the latest app from FEMA. This app will provide up-to-date information, help coordinate emotional and spiritual care, locate disaster recovery centers (DRCs), and so much more.

Don't get too comfortable! Making plans NOW could make a world of difference in how your family lives through a disaster. For more information about this app and other resources visit www.ready.gov/fema-app.

It's Your Duty – Know the Importance of Accounting for Yourself During a Disaster or Pandemic

What is the Personnel Accountability and Assessment System?

The PAAS is a safe and secure way to share important information and track the status and whereabouts of Defense Department-affiliated personnel and their family members during disaster or pandemic situations.

Who uses PAAS?

- ➔ Service members: active duty, selected reserve, active reserve and National Guard
- ➔ DOD civilians, nonappropriated fund and NEX employees
- ➔ Overseas contractors
- ➔ Foreign nationals
- ➔ Transitional personnel: retired or separated dependent family members

Coast Guard: CGPAAS <https://cgpaas.uscg.mil>

Combatant Command: CCMD PAAS
<https://ccom.dc3n.navy.mil/>

Fourth Estate: FEPAAS <https://fepaas.whs.mil>

There are 6 million+ people
using
globally

Note: Total represents the number of users of PAAS as of July 6, 2022, including service members, DOD civilian employees and their family members.

What tools does PAAS use to help account for all personnel and family?

Some versions of PAAS include one or more of the following features:

Personnel Accountability collects and tracks the status and location of individuals after a disaster.

Needs Assessment triages and collects assessment surveys for family support program case managers based on 19 categories of need for an active event.

Daily Muster Tool collects and tracks daily work status and location confirmations by individuals or their supervisory staff, providing start dates and projected end dates of availability.

Personnel Status Tracker provides pandemic-related accounting so personnel can self-report health and work status. It automatically tracks and sends personnel health and work status data for leaders to assess the impact of a pandemic on the force.

AtHoc Alerts allow push notifications and status updates through SMS – or short message service – text, email and phone calls.
